we also began to separate ourselves from each other and created borders, languages and traditions that caused wars and competition instead of co-creation for the earth and the universe.